A TROUBLED WORLD
WHAT AILS US ALL?

THERE IS SERIOUS REVOLU-TION in Brazil, Pernambuco taken by the rebels, according to report.
In the Argentine, rioting leaders are executed. In China 75,000
"Reds" attack Kiangsi province.
Mild and peaceful south Germany is rocked by earthquake.
Raphael's beautiful madonna in Munich, with the exquisite little cherubs looking upward must have felt the quake, but fortunately was not injured.

It is a strange, agitated, restless, dissatisfied world.
That we have our share of the dissatisfaction here is proved in serious rioting and fighting by gangs of rowdies in Boston, attacking police and members of the American Legion.

It is enlightening in our day of "prohibition" to read that the fight started when a federal agent interfered with four bootleggers selling the whiskey to the crowd, in public.

WHEN YOU ARE ILL, it is well to know what is the matter. Business is ill, with an illness that affects millions of unemployed, as illness of the body affects billions of cells.

L. Greenfield, of Santa Barbara, diagnosing, finds the following list
of symptoms:

- 1—Over-speculation.
- 2—Fear.
- 3—Loss of confidence in our financial system.
- 4—Very low and cautious circulation of money.
- 5—Increase of unemployment by big business methods of 'economy'.
- 6—False statements of the country's condition.

What would you add to these symptoms? There is something the matter that nobody understands.
This country fortunately will cure itself this time as it has cured it self often before.

IT SEEMS STRANGE TO READ dispatches from Washington about the "type of submarines that the navy may build under the London treaty."

We couldn't imagine Grover Cleveland, or Lincoln, asking anybody in London: "What kind of submarines may we build? and how many?"

You are told that we may have,
in years hence, as many as 40 United States submarines, and the navy is "concentrating on numbers, not on size."

We ought to have 100 submarines now, and we should concentrate on size, speed, and especially on cruising radius.

We should say to the rest of the world "We want peace, and we intend to have it. Therefore, we have a submarine fleet that can go around the world, invisible, and destroy every one of your commercial ships."

Kridler Awarded
Production Medal

R. C. Kridler, of Salem, has just received a silver medal certificate from the American Jersey Cattle club for Old Orchard Farm Poetess.
This cow, which started in test at three years and four months old, gave 10,959 pounds of milk and produced 561.31 pounds of fat in 305 days.

This is about 70 pounds more than would have been required for the silver medal.

This young cow is a half sister to Gamboges Bright Hope, which won the state championship in the 305 day class last year in Ohio.

More Mileage Added
To State Route 14

State route No. 14 has been opened for traffic between Edinburg and Ravenna, it was announced here today.

The highway is practically complete with exception of construction of a bridge which is to be built this year. "Road closed" signs are still erected on the road but it can be used.
The road through Campbellsport, formerly a narrow, winding highway, is now a wide roadway.

From Hotel Guilty
Of Murder

ST. LOUIS, MO., Oct. 9.—George W. E. Perry, believed by police to be the man charged with the murder of Mrs. Cera Bell Hackett near Lac Du Flambeau, Wis., disappeared from his hotel room last night shortly before detectives appeared to arrest him.

Perry vanished without checking out of the hotel or taking any of his baggage.
The detectives said they had evidence that Perry had married one St. Louis woman and proposed to another since he came here three weeks ago. He posed as the heir to a $875,000 fortune while in St. Louis.
The detectives said.

Perry's identity became known when pictures of the fugitive hunted by Wisconsin, Chicago and federal authorities, appeared in a St. Louis newspaper and the similarity to the Perry at the hotel was noted.

When the police arrived at his hotel room, however, Perry had vanished.

ENROLLMENT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS
CREATES RECORD

2,616 Students Listed In Salem Classes; More
Girls Than Boys

Enrollment at Salem public schools for the first month of the 1930-31 school year, totalled 2,616, a new record, J. S. Alan, superintendent, announced today in his monthly attendance report.

The average attendance for the period was 2,561 while the percentage of attendance was 98.32. A total of 2,088 pupils had records of perfect attendance during the month.

There are 1,311 girls and 1,305
boys enrolled at the various schools.
Enrollment figures are:
Fourth St.—150 boys, 173 girls, total 323; McKinley—138 boys, 143 girls, total 281; Reilly—160 boys, 120 girls, total 280; Columbia—131
boys, 141 girls, total 272; Prospect—125 boys, 139 girls, total 264; Junior High—241 boys, 224 girls, total 465;
High School—360 boys, 371 girls, total 731.

The high school enrollment is far in excess of number of students to ever attend classes there. Conditions in majority of the classrooms are congested while grade schools too are over-crowded.

Prospect school had the highest percentage of attendance, 99.05 per cent while the high school was second with 98.7 per cent. Records of others are:

Fourth St.—98.28; McKinley 98.5;
Reilly 98.07; Columbia, 97.92; Junior high, 98.48.

A total of 587 high school students had perfect attendance records while only three of the 731 enrolled were lardy. Fourth street school had no tardy cases while Prospect had only two. Columbia's tardy students totalled 20, Reilly's three, McKinley's five and Junior high 12.

Board Refuses To Aid Township Case

The Columbiana county election board today refused to join with Perry township residents in an appeal to the appellate court of the decision rendered by Judge W. F.
Lones against a referendum of the extension of Salem city limits.

Attorneys for township residents asked election board officials for their signature in the appeal but were refused.

Judge Lones refused to grant a referendum on the extension proposed by granting the city of Salem a permanent injunction against the board of elections preventing the letter from placing it on ballots in the November election.

FOUR MET DEATH AS

Leader Of Rescue Squad
Perishes When He

(By Associated Press)
DALTON, Oct. 9.—The cause of flames which resulted in the deaths of three veteran miners and a rescue worker in a slope mine near this Wayne county village was being investigated by the state bureau of mines today.

The bodies of the three miners, entombed in a tunnel which ran 800 feet back from the entrance, were recovered last night after firemen and rescue workers had fought the fire, gas and water since early yesterday.

The dead men had fled to the rear of the tunnel as the flames ate back and heavy streams of water were poured in. They were found huddled together, asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas.

The victims failed to erect a barricade—the only chance they had to save their lives. Apparently they had lived only half an hour.

The dead were Russel Shanklin,
45, part owner of the mine; Robert Douglas, 55, mine engineer; and Harvey P. Sward, 47, the father of 11 young children, all of whom resided near here.

The finding of their bodies brought the death toll to four. Rush
D. Hiller, 47, Canton undertaker, removed his gas mask earlier in the day while leading a rescue squad, and died from breathing the fatal fumes.

Thomas Reese of Salem, state mining inspector, was one of the first to enter the mine, equipped with oxygen tanks. Reese arrived at the mine shortly after being notified of the entombment of the miners and with George Eyer, Massillon fireman, entered the mine shortly after noon.

The men carried with them a canary bird to test the air. At a distance of 150 feet from the mine's entrance the bird was overcome and the inspector, with Eyer, were forced to withdraw.

Douglas possibly gave his life in an effort to warn Shanklin and Sward, investigators believed.

His regular post was in a shed outside the mine, and it was considered likely he ran into the tunnel to cry the alarm when he noticed the flames.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Oct. 9.

11:20 a. m. (Salem time), in the airplane Columbia, for England.

The two fliers had been fore-bound at the local airport for more still hung over the New Foundland coast but, impatient at the delay, they prepared to take advantage of the first break in the weather.

It came during the forenoon when the clouds broke away and the fliers decided to take the leap immediately.

It will be the Columbia's second transatlantic crossing if the fliers are successful. The airplane is owned by Charles A. Levine, who flew it to Germany more than three years ago. His pilot was Clarence Chamberlain.

TAX COMMISSION
TAKES OVER REINS

Typhoid, Diphtheria Are Threats To Communities
In Affected District

(By International News Service)
COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Informed by first-hand investigation, that epidemics are threatened in southern Ohio, due to aggravated conditions in the drought-affected counties, the state tax commission
today, with the approval of Gov.
Myers V. Cooper, had taken action which makes it possible for the local taxing authorities to raise funds for relief measures.

The tax commission issued an order declaring the existence of an emergency of such proportions as to justify the issuance of notes and the borrowing of money by local taxing authorities for direct relief aid for the purpose of providing employment through public works.

John S. Edwards a member of the state tax commission, recently attended, at Pomeroy, a meeting of public officials, bankers and representative citizens of Washington, Meigs, Vinton, Gallia and Athens counties. Speakers told of serious conditions in these counties. Other counties in southern Ohio are said to be similarly affected.

Actual drought conditions still prevail in some localities where water is being hauled for miles for family and livestock use. Cases of typhoid fever and diphtheria exist in several communities. Throughout the counties, there is a shortage of food, fuel and feed for stock and many instances were related of children who were prevented from attending school because of lack of proper clothing.

The tax commission's order was issued late Wednesday after representatives of these five counties had conferred, at the governor's office, with Harry D. Silver, state finance director.

After outlining conditions which exist in these counties, members of the delegation presented a copy of resolutions, adopted at the Pomeroy meeting, asking Gov. Cooper to call a special session of the state legislature for the purpose of amending the state highway code so as to permit use of funds on township and county roads.

State authorities, however, interpreted Ohio laws as empowering the state tax commission to declare that an emergency exists and to authorize the local taxing authorities to raise funds for relief measures. Accordingly, it was held that a special legislative session was unnecessary.

RIO DE JANEIRO
DEFENSES READY

Air Forces Join Rebel
Contingents; Turn

(By Associated Press)
MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, Oct.
9.—Revolutionary armies of the southern Brazilian states are converging on Sao Paulo, center of Brazil's vast coffee-growing region, where it now appears, a decisive battle may be fought.

The Rio De Janeiro government, deplores state is depending upon troops in Sao Paulo to keep the southern armies away from the capital while the revolution is put down in the north. And to this end has strengthened its military bases for defense of the coffee capital.

In Rio Grande do Sul, hotbed of the revolution, and in Parana and Santa Catharina, adjoining states almost every hamlet is furnishing its quota of volunteers to aid in the advance of Sao Paulo and Rio De Janeiro.

Reports through Uruguayan border points say that 80,000 men are under arms and that armies totalling 100,000 men already have been mobilized. Parana and Santa Catharina armies totalling 30,000 men are marching toward the Uruguay river to effect a union there for the march northward.

Some successes are reported from the detachments and larger divisions advancing northward. Forces from Vaccari and Bom Jesus yesterday took Villa Lagos, while a dispatch from Porto Alegre said Villa Annitopolis, strategic Santa Catharina coast point, had fallen to the revolutionary forces.

Meanwhile the revolutionary movement is advancing in the north.
Where Pernambuco and Natal have fallen to the insurgents, Pernambuco insurgents, reinforced with compatriots from Parahyba, were said here to have taken over the small state of Alagoas, and to be now advancing toward Bahia, or Sao Salvador.

Rio De Janeiro reports said Bahia would be made the center of federal operations in the north and that General Santa Cruz had been appointed chief of all loyal forces in the area.

As reported here there is a strong revolutionary following in the Brazilian air corps. Members of the federal aviation school at Rio De Janeiro are said to be under arrest after attempting a subversive movement. Four planes sent to bomb Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes, have joined the revolution, while six airplanes at Natal have been handed over to the rebels.

COMMISSION TO

By Hoover Group

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Promise of an early report on prohibition in which there will be "no pussyfooting" emanated from President Hoo-ver's law enforcement commission today after long hours of argument at its opening session yesterday.

It has become definitely known that the controversial subject of prohibition is now dominating the discussions of the commission and it also is known that virtually all of the day and night sessions of yesterday were spent in arguing the demands of an insurgent element on the commission for an immediate report on this question.

Leaders of this insurgent element are understood to be Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and Kenneth
S. Mackintosh, former Washington jurist, both Republicans and dry.
They are reported to have insisted that the commission thrash out the prohibition controversy and do it at once.

Chairman George W. Wickersham announced after the long opening session that the commission hoped to report to congress by the opening of the December session, he added he believed "If the commission reaches the conclusion that prohibition is not enforceable, I think we should say so."

THE R-101 DISASTER

The world was shocked when it heard of the disaster that occurred to the R-101 last Saturday night on the beginning of its flight to India. The successful long-distance flights of the Graf Zeppelin and the R-100 have come very close to establishing a safety reputation for lighter-than-air transportation and the apparent inability of the R-101 to attain elevation and rise above the autumnal tempest that dashed it to the ground was contradictory to the general belief that dirigibles are capable of riding out almost any storm they may encounter.

Each person makes his own interpretation of a disaster that lacks dependable description. It is probable, and fortunately so, that no one ever will know exactly what caused the R-101 to crash. Evidence made available so far points to faulty management, inadequate preparation and unskilled handling. More careful planning might have taken into consideration the occurrence of storms; better engineering and inspection might have strengthened or discovered structural weaknesses and faults; better handling might have avoided the crash that caused the fatal explosion of the inflammable hydrogen with which the dirigible was filled. But there always will be some doubt; it will be a good thing, because no single person will have to take the entire blame for a disaster that probably grew out of a number of causes.

There is no excuse for condemning the dirigible as a type of transportation as seems to be one trend. Great Britain was trying hard to catch up with Germany through the construction of the R-100 and the R-101 and the error a little in her haste. That is all. The United States is trying to catch up with Germany, too. She has something to learn, but nothing to fear.

The real tragedy of the R-101 is, of course, the loss of 46 of its passengers, including Lord Thomson, British air minister. Among the dead were men who had dedicated their lives to making Great Britain a leader in lighter-than-air transportation. Their death will retard seriously any further program Great Britain may attempt to place in operation. They died not as heroes, but as practical men who were the victims of a most regrettable accident.

LADY NICOTINE

The editor of a magazine published in Cleveland, the Cleveland Club Woman, wrote a sarcastic editorial recently on snooters. The particular snooters in question were women who asked Queen Mary whether it really was true that she smoked an occasional cigarette. Queen Mary, needless to say, did not reply. At the time of the incident there were many who wondered publicly what business it was to the ladies if the queen of England did smoke and many others who answered them, also publicly, that it was none of their business at all. There seemed to be pretty general agreement on that point, but the affair soon was forgotten.

The afore-mentioned sarcastic editorial has opened the incident again. The president of the Cuyahoga county W. C. T. U. has made it the excuse for an attack on the editor of the Cleveland Club Woman, and has attempted to make it plain that the national W. C. T. U. had nothing to do with the affair. That is all between the magazine, the gatepost and the W. C. T. U., of course. The principle involved and Queen Mary's smoking habits continue to be of interest, however.

Conduct is largely a matter of imitation. In any group some people are more likable or important than others and they play an important part in establishing social patterns.

By right of birth and by right of accomplishment, Queen Mary is one of those persons. There is a legitimate excuse, therefore, for questioning her concerning a habit which, if given general approval, would have a widespread effect. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. were snubbed when they attempted to interrogate the queen and they probably should have been, but their interest was not by any means impertinent. They certainly were not snooters; that is a term that implies sneaking tactics.

What Others Say

The first Earl of Birkenhead, whose death after a long illness follows with a few weeks that of the Duke of Northumberland, was only 58 years old; but few men in English political life have had a more stirring and varied career. It may be doubted if in intellectual ability he was equal to the duke, who though he held no political office, was long a power in the Conservative party by reason of his courage and his firm adherence to principle. The earl, once Frederick Edwin Smith, rose from humble beginnings. As Browning said of himself, he was "ever a fighter," though perhaps he did not always choose his weapons with discrimination. Presumably a staunch opponent of Irish home rule, he was nevertheless one of the chief negotiators of the treaty which established the Free State. In spite of the vehemence which was one of his marked characteristics, he was incapable of the consistency that the Duke of Northumberland so brilliantly exemplified.

Lord Birkenhead had one of the finest legal minds in England, and he had the barrister's capacity of doing his best for whatever public cause happened to be at the moment his client. He was a skillful prosecutor, as he showed in the case of Sir Roger Casement, and he was largely instrumental in carrying through a great reform in English legal procedure. He was a prominent member of the wartime coalition cabinet, and was later secretary of state for India under Mr. Baldwin. His services to his party in general were conspicuous, though, like Mr. Winston Churchill, his lack of judgment often made him a sort of enfant terrible. Nevertheless, his fighting qualities made his death a loss to his political associates. He would have been an asset to the Conservatives as a campaigner had he survived until another general election.—Philadelphia Inquirer

NEW YORK

Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Modern vagaries of an unsentimental age have not entirely beclouded New York. The golden past peeps faintly through here and there. The old Murray Hill district, more than any other, symbolizes how tenuously many cling to subdued and oppressive mid-Victorian propriety.

In this area may be found dignified gentlemen who take infinite pains in trimming their beards, cultivate a rather melancholy habit of mind and who wear hats straight on their heads instead of at rakish angles. They make sweeping bows to ladies and otherwise epitomize perfect behaviorism.

The old Murray Hill Hotel, center of the district, drops in a somnolent gloom. In its enormous lobby are venerable aristocrats who carry gold knobbed canes and meet any unseemly overtures of strangers with quickly lifted eyebrows and hearty guffaws. A few still indulge a pinch of snuff.

There are Murray Hill men who take an afternoon off now and then to dress in frock coat and high hat and pay brief, respectful calls to the brown stone mansions of old friends. Once a month they go far down town for similar visits with the family lawyer.

Many ladies, as frail as frost, recall long black half-mits and stately minuettes. On pleasant days they depart in closed carriages, horse drawn, for a circle of Central Park.

A fleeting glimpse of their faces suggests old ivory and you somehow think of the quick, sad strokes of churchbells.

While the Morgans live on Murray Hill, not all are rich as New York judges wealth. But they are the last of the vanishing blue bloods. Uniforms of their coachmen are shabby. Butlers are flabby and gouty from age. Any number of residents still have six o'clock dinners in the half light of patrician basement dining rooms.

These are the thinning line of gentle folk to whom tabloids, lams, saxophones, sex novels, pagan plays and other off-shoots of a roistering generation are mysteries. Their amusements are learned lectures at Town Hall and a few auspicious symphony concerts at Carnegie.

I still think, however, nothing looks quite so out of place in the New York hurrah as one of those pointer hunting dogs with beautiful coat and pleading eyes.

On the day the celebrated Henri Matisse visited New York the metropolitan press bulged with engagement rumors of a cabaret singer to a motion picture lady. One notice of the celebrated painter was compassed under "Hotel Arrivals," demised completely with a single line: "Henry Matisse, Nice France."

A returning American, weary of hearing Berkeley pronounced "Bare-lay" and Chelmondeley "Chumley" had his revenge. A Britisher bade him bon voyage and remarked that some day he hoped to see Niagara Falls. "You mean Niffles?" queried the Yankee.

Too, I hear British ship-builders are knitting brows to excel with something larger than the German ship, "Europa" and "Bremen." They were at work on the thousand foot Oceanic when the Teutonic liners were launched and immediately abandoned their marine masterpiece. In the meantime French ship-builders have up their sleeve the "Ile de la Cite" in which they hope to cross from Harve to New York in less than four days. Fun on the ocean, gracious me!

I was getting along fairly well with today's offering when—Lisle Bell popped in all merry and bright and observed that what he would enjoy at the moment would be a steaming bowl of old fashioned navy bean soup flavored with ham-bone. That gives you an idea why we skip out of town now and then to get away from it all.

Also I have got to keep away from 11th avenue. It is entirely too rough. Wandering about there yesterday several loafers around a gas house screeched in falsetto, "Yoo hoo!" directed, I suppose, at my spats. Feigning nonchalance, I idled before a window in which was a mirror. "Look!" yelled another, "He's taking a pike at his puss." So I scurried away up a side street.

I also stopped in at my old home, the Ritz—you know, see how the other half lives—and it occurs to me the movies could find a handsome leading man in John Lawlor, a starter there.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

WATCH YOUR EARS

What to do for the minor accidents of life is something everybody should know. The baby gets an object up his nose or ear, one of the family gets something in his eye or some other painful accident may happen—any one of these experiences calls for judgment and skill at a moment's notice.

It is not uncommon to get a foreign body in the ear. It creates a disagreeable sensation. Probably nothing is more distressing than getting an insect in the ear, and yet how easily that accident can happen. No matter how small the insect is, it can make a lot of trouble.

Nature's Safeguard

Nature has provided a safeguard in the form of the sticky odorless earwax. When an insect gains entrance to the ear the fat and wings of the insect are caught in this substance. This usually prevents the insect from reaching the eardrum.

If an insect ever does crawl far enough to reach the drum membrane the effect is maddening. The loud noises made are overpowering. There is such pain, with headache and vomiting that convulsions are sometimes caused.

The thing to do at once is to pour sweet oil or olive oil or sewing machine oil into the ear and let it remain for a few minutes. Insects are quickly killed by this means. Then the ear should be gently irrigated with a stream of warm water from a fountain syringe. Never hang the fountain syringe higher than the head.

OUR READERS

A TREATISE ON BIRDS

Editor, The News.

The first week end in October found our woods and fields with all the ear marks of fall, and yet with a trace of summer, too. The leaves of the red maples and gums have turned to scarlet, those of the tulip trees to bright yellow, and the mid-day warmth of the past few days has completed the work of last week's heavy frosts and caused the leaves to fall more rapidly. The oaks and goldenrod fill the fields with soft shades of purple and white, and bright yellow. The oaks and sugar maples however retain their green to a large extent; yarrow and Queen Anne's lace and self-heal are still found occasionally while a genuine touch of spring is found in the extraordinarily large numbers of violets that are in bloom this fall.

Among the birds too this paradoxical juxtaposition of summer and fall is evident. While a large number of our birds have already flown southward, one is surprised occasionally to see some bird which should have gone three or even four weeks ago. A trip to Eagle-ton's glens recently, revealed two young indigo buntings, showing blue in their tail feathers only, which had not yet left for their winter homes. Some of the birds sing occasionally, too, with all the fervor of mating time, but most of them indulge only in brief whisperings. Autumn showed itself last week end more in the numbers of species of birds listed. While I recorded 70 different kinds of birds during the week end, two weeks ago, and 45 in one day, but one week ago I saw only 36 different kinds in the two days of the last week end, although this number would have been enhanced, doubtless, had I visited some locality favorable to shore-birds, such as Pine lake or Westville lake.

The birds which I heard singing Saturday and Sunday included the Phoebe Song Sparrow, Vesper Sparrow, Robin, Titmouse and Cardinal among our summer birds, and the Blue Jay, which is truly a fall bird if ever there was one, and the migrant White Throated Sparrow, which favors us with some of the music they bestow on their northern listeners.

While the catbirds were abundant only a week ago, they were entirely missing from Eagle-ton's glens, and only a side trip to a briar patch on the edge of town and a trip to Mill Creek park, in Youngstown, revealed solitary catbirds on each occasion.

The house wrens, which were common a week ago, have been entirely replaced by their cousins, the winter wrens, those chubby, short-tailed northerners which remind us, as they dance, of nothing so much as marionettes dancing on wires. The Carolina wrens we have with us always although I know them in only a few localities.

Among the other common birds which were here a week ago and are gone now, are the vireos, red-headed woodpeckers, Maryland yellowthroats, brown thrashers, woodpeckers, bobolinks, and as far as I can discover the chimney swifts, some of our summer residents, however, which have so far disregarded our chill nights, are the goldfinches, killdeer, field sparrows, flickers, towhees, meadowlarks, and kingfishers. One never knows whether to call the crows, grackles, and waxwings, summer residents only, or permanent residents—they sometimes migrate en masse and again they remain with us in considerable numbers.

The winter birds which have begun to arrive are the winter wren, ruby-crowned kinglet, juncos, white-throated sparrows, although these we are certain of. The juncos observed were the thrush, olive backed thrush, throated green warbler and throated blue warbler. The latter were the only ones of their kind. I was, I identify, although last week before there were birds of different kinds of wren evident.

And so we see the passing summer and hail the coming autumn.

VICE PRESIDENT OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH OHIO TALK

Tariff Act Defended In Address In Columbus; Endorses Ticket

possible to prepare any tariff measure without some mistakes. But there is more good in this measure than there is bad."

He said that any mistakes in the act can be corrected through the operation of the flexible rate provision. He admitted that the flexible provision had not previously worked out as successfully as it should have, but added:

Commission Too Slow
"The last tariff commission was too slow. It delayed months in acting. But I know the new commission will act promptly and enter an honest judgment whether rates are too high or too low."

The Democratic party, Curtis charged, is an advocate of free trade and as such "has never been true of protecting an American industry of American labor."

Denying that the Republican party or the national administration is in any way to blame for unemployment conditions, Curtis asserted the situation now is not nearly so serious as in 1914 or in 1920, when he said 5,000,000 persons were jobless.

President Hoover, he said, has "done everything possible to restore confidence and return prosperity to the country." He blamed lack of confidence for the continuance of the business depression, declaring there is today as much money and capital in the country as ever before.

"We have had hard times before and we have got out of them in a reasonable time," he continued. "We have hard times now, but we will get out of them under Republican policies."

Curtis Lauds Program

The Republican national administration, Curtis declared, has inaugurated "the greatest internal improvement program in history" to aid in relieving conditions. He appealed especially to the women voters to support the Republican ticket.

"I hope the American women will continue to advocate the policies they know are for the best interest of the American people," he said. He also praised Gov. Cooper and his administration.

Senator Fess' address was largely a repetition of the "keynote" speech he delivered here Sept. 11, before the Republican state convention.

"The problem before us is now to preserve the purchasing power of the American people in the midst of world-wide depression," he said, in denouncing the tariff act.

The business depression, he declared, was general throughout the world and has been less severe in America than in other nations.

Panic Follows Fire In Chicago Church

CHICAGO, Oct. 9. — Fire broke out last night in St. Isidore's Polish Catholic church while 200 worshippers were attending services there. A rush for the exits that threatened to become a panic was halted when the Rev. Fr. Thaddeus Nowak with his back to the flames, besought the members of the congregation to move slowly, that there was plenty of time.

The fire, which started behind the sacristy did small damage.

Try Magnesia for Indigestion

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion. Adv.

MARKETS

STOCKS DECLINE AS MART OPENS

Trading Active During Morning; U. S. Steel Sets New Low

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Stocks declined fractions to more than a point at the opening of the stock exchange today.

Trading was active with large blocks ranging from 12,000 shares

appearing on the tape.

U. S. Steel made a new low in the first five minutes, selling down to 150 1/2 on a block of 2,100 shares. It then dipped to 150 1/4.

No support was discernible and stocks slowly sagged to new lows.

All groups were affected with the exception of the oils, which were steady to firm. A few isolated advances gained but these advances were quickly erased.

Utility issues were hard hit as were steels in the latter group.

Bethlehem dropped to a new low for the year at 74 1/2 off 2 1/2 in heavy

"THE UNHOLY THREE"
At The State
Thrills, surprises, uncanny shadows and shivery mystery are the surroundings of the late Lon Chaney's first and last talking picture, "The Unholy Three," now playing at the State theater.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production has an amazing plot of a circus side-show ventriloquist, a midget and a giant, banded into a sinister triumvirate, and going through an astounding adventure. As the ventriloquist, Chaney is able to spring some surprises himself, in the way of five different voices. He plays the ventriloquist, carries on a conversation with his dummy, enacts the role of an old woman, with a perfect imitation of the feeble voice of old age, and besides his voice surprises even sing!

Who would ever imagine Chaney, master of mystery, favoring his audience with "Sweet Rosie O'Grady"? His first talkie is Chaney's greatest performance that of the sinister "Echo." Lila Lee plays the heroine, as the side show girl, and Elliott Nugent is seen in the male juvenile role.

The rest of "The Unholy Three" deserve special mention. They are Harry Earles, who plays the midget, extracting considerable comedy out of a rather grim role, and Ivan Linow as the giant.

"COMMON CLAY"
Grand Attraction
Can a girl live down her past? That is one of the many problems in "Common Clay," the unusual movietone offering now on the screen of the Grand theater, with Constance Bennett and Lew Ayres playing the leading roles.

Victor Fleming directed this faithful version of Clives Kinkaid's Harvard prize success, with Tully Marshall, Matty Kemp, Beryl Mercer and other celebrities in the cast.

Woman Flier Sets New Mark For Sex

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Batting storms and groping through dense mountain fogs during the last 300 miles of a trans-continental flight, Laura Ingalls, diminutive 25-year-old aviatrix, has established a mark for fliers of her sex—an elapsed time of 30-hours, 27-minutes for flying across the United States.

Miss Ingalls left New York Sunday, making nine stops enroute. She completed the last leg from Kingman, Ariz., her last fueling stop, in four hours, 40-minutes, dropping down at Glendale airport at 4:25 p. m. (P. S. T.) yesterday.

The aviatrix made the crossing in the same plane with which she recently set the world's record of 714 barrel rolls and the women's record of 980 consecutive loops. Miss Ingalls is a transport pilot and has been flying two years.

PITCHING OF GROVE, EARNSHAW GREAT FACTOR IN A'S VICTORY

THE DAY In Sports

WILLAMAN STAR IN '13

Ohio State and Northwestern have met eight times on the gridiron since 1913. The Evanston school being one of the teams that Ohio State did not play until after entrance into the Big Ten. Ohio State has won six of the games and Northwestern two, the Buckeyes being credited with 211 points to 40 for their next Saturday's foes.

The "rub" comes through when the history of the past three years between the two schools is reviewed. In 1927 Northwestern steam-rolled the Bucks 19 to 13. "Tiny" Lewis battering the Scarlet line to bits. The 1928 game resulted in a 10 to 0 Ohio State victory, the Bucks recovering a Purple fumble deep in Northwestern territory and scoring the game's only touchdown on a pass from Holman to Eby from the 50-yard line.

Last year, the Buckeyes were completely outclassed, losing 18 to 6 and scoring their only touchdown when Fessler recovered a Calderwood fumble before it hit the ground to run 98 yards.

The early days of the rivalry were distinctly Ohio's the records showing that Northwestern was able to score but three points against Scarlet teams in five games.

The series was inaugurated in 1913 when the Buckeyes won Northwestern 58 to 0. "Sam" Willaman, present Buckeye coach, scored four touchdowns in this encounter and the Bucks, as a whole, gained 507 yards to 46 for Northwestern. They also scored 46 first downs to three for Northwestern.

The score of the 1914 game was 27 to 0, Ohio State. The teams battled through a scoreless first half in the 1915 game but in the third period, Howard Yerges, Ohio State's greatest quarterback, forward-passed the Wildcats dizzy and the Buckeyes completed three touchdowns in four minutes, eventually winning 34 to 0.

The 1916 game decided the championship of the Western conference. Ohio State, winning 23 to 3, "Chic" Harley led the Ohio attack that day making the first score of the game with a placement kick from the Purple's 34-yard line after six minutes of play. In the fourth quarter "Paddy" Driscoll, one of Northwestern's immortals, booted a placement kick from Ohio's 38-yard line to tie the score but this merely acted as a spark which sent the great Harley into action.

Almost before the sounds of Northwestern's cheering had subsided, Harley electrified one of the Ohio fields largest crowds with a 63-yard touchdown run. Shortly thereafter he ran for another touchdown traveling 16 yards. Then he threw a pass to Clarence McDonald which placed the ball so close to the Purple goal that "Sweede" Sorenson, fullback, went over on a line plunge.

In 1927, another Ohio State championship year, Pete Stinchcomb, the Buckeye's second all-American, scored three touchdowns on runs of 40, 15 and 13 yards, Ohio winning, 40 to 0.

Long noted as great followers of the team on out-of-town trips, hundreds of university and Columbus people are expected to make the trek to Evanston Saturday. A special train has been hired by the university athletic association.

Several radio stations will be on the air with the game, among them WEAO, Ohio State university's own broadcaster system. This station will go on the air at 2:45 Columbus time with pre-game information. Game time is 3:00 o'clock, Eastern Standard time.

Officials for the game are Frank Birch (Earham), referee; W. D. Knight (Dartmouth), umpire; Geo. L. Simpson (Wisconsin), field judge; and J. J. Lipp (Chicago), head linesman.

Notre Dame Stars Out Of Navy Tilt
SOUTH BEND, IND., Oct. 9.—Poor Knute Rockne! Injuries have cut his Notre Dame football squad from 120 to 118 hand-picked players.

The two casualties will be missed Saturday when the Rams meet the Navy, however, they are "Moon" Mullins, first string fullback, and Dick Donoghue, varsity right tackle, who were scuffed up in the Southern Methodist game. Coach Rockne said they will not be permitted to play in the navy game.

Stonemen Off Color In Trials Wednesday At Park; Ballantine Stars

Salem High may defeat Warren in the night game scheduled at Rellly athletic stadium Friday but the victory will not be a result of the football as exhibited by the first-string eleven selected by Coach Floyd Stone in scrimmage workouts held at Centennial park Wednesday evening.

The Red and Black varsity eleven, playing against Assistant Coach Franklin Lewis' third-string youngsters, failed to give an impressive exhibition on either defense or offense in what was without doubt the regular team's poorest practice since the first week of the season and chances for a victory over the Friday night opponents, at first bright, began showing marked signs of fading.

The third team ran a series of plays used by Warren and carried the ball through the first team's line for repeated gains of five and six yards while the latter aggregation failed to register a first down in 15 minutes of practice against the younger opponents. In 11 tries the varsity gained only 12 yds on line smashes while the third team made practically every play attempted good for some gain.

Varsity Has Off-Night
It was an off-night for Stone's combination of first-stringers and the afternoon's activities were featured by work of the Lewis protégés, especially George Ballantine who is now playing his fourth year as substitute lineman despite frequent displays of exceptional ability on defense. Adam Pukalski, Judy Julian, Dan Alexander and Gordy Soullier composed the third-team backfield and performed to advantage.

The second team made a better showing against the third team than did the varsity. Ballantine smeared Bill Smith, Johnny French, Ed Beck and Jack Carpenter for repeated losses and may probably get the chance he has been battling for since his first year at Salem High—that of starting the game against Warren. It is a certainty that were he to continue playing as he did yesterday Stone will look to him as one of two linemen he has been searching for in an effort to patch up a glaring weakness at his guards.

Harold Hackett and Lawrence Weigand were at first-team guards with Augie Corso and his brother Mike at tackles while Gordy Keyes and Purn Sidinger played the ends. Paul Sartick again was unable to scrimmage because of his injured hand. Carpenter, Beck, Smith and French were at the Ball-carrying posts during the entire scrimmage.

Ballantine May Start
The first-team wasn't given a long scrimmage after its disappointing exhibition against the scrubs and was sent to the showers, the two reserve eleven battling it out. This scrimmage was the only item of interest in the afternoon, several of the younger players showing much promise and members of the varsity combination whom Stone has been selecting to start games all season are by no means certain of their positions.

It won't create any surprise in ranks of fandom here if at least one change, that of sending the husky Ballantine to a guard to start the Warren game, is made.

A newcomer, Houts, who last year played with Cuyahoga Falls, turned out for practice with the Stonemen, for the first time Tuesday night and yesterday played half-back with the second team.

Houts showed excellent tackling ability and clearly proved that he has played football before and it may be that he will work himself into a varsity berth, at end if not at half, before the season is completed.

Disappointing as yesterday's workout may have been, the chances are that the Stonemen will play according to par against Warren. It is certain that an improvement is essential to aid the team in its fight for victory but then every team, even the greatest, have off-nights. Wednesday was the team's first experience in a muddy battle and perhaps the water and inclemency of the weather in general may have had a harmful effect. But then fine weather won't always be here this fall and Jupiter Pluvius makes his presence felt no matter what the effect may be on a football team.

Earnshaw Stands Out As Star For A's; Gelbert For Cards

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—There was only one nomination today for the player most entitled to enter the ranks of the world's series heroes.

He is George Livingston Earnshaw, New Yorker by birth, Philadelphia by adoption and achievement, alumnus of Swarthmore college and right-handed "iron man" pitcher ace, of the world's champion Athletics.

Earnshaw is 30 years old now, long past the day when he used to hear the old college cheers, but he still parts his hair in the middle and looks the part of an undergraduate. He was a great football player as well as a star pitcher in college. He is the greatest right-handed "iron man" in baseball now and entitled to rank with such famous old-time stars as Joe McGinnity, Jack Combs and Big Ed Walsh.

After sharing the pitching "big act" with his team-mate and co-star, Robert Moses Grove, most of the way, Earnshaw wound up in a blaze of pitching glory by hurling 16 of the last 18 innings for the A's. Earnshaw broke up what was expected to be a repetition of the fifth game "act" with Grove by sticking to the last man was out, even though it was a struggle, while Grove continued to make gestures in the bullpen.

At Simmons was the most consistent of the Athletics at bat, hitting safely in five of the six games as he lived up to the best traditions of the league's batting king, leading the regulars of both teams with the stick. Simmons had the

Philadelphia Hurlers Proved Too Tough For Batters Of Card Crew

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The Athletics of Philadelphia, world's champions for the second time in two years, had a right today to consider themselves "a great team."

The accolade was bestowed by no less a judge of baseball teams than Connie Mack himself. The 67-year-old manager of the Athletics refused to stamp his team as "great" after it had won the American league championship. First, he said, the A's must repeat as world's champions.

The American leaguers won the series in impressive fashion by capturing the sixth game, 7 to 1, from the courageous but impotent St. Louis Cardinals.

Cards Almost Helpless
After the effective pitching of Big George Earnshaw, the Cards were almost helpless, failing to get a man to third base until two batsmen had been retired in the final inning.

When the visitors counted their lone run they broke a streak of scoreless pitching against them by Earnshaw, which had extended over a stretch of 22 innings.

The Big Moose of the A's blanketed the opposition in the last seven innings of the second game of the series, permitting six hits and winning 6 to 1.

In the fifth, game at St. Louis he went the first seven innings without being nicked for a run when he left the game for a pinch hitter. In this game he had allowed only two hits. In the final game he turned the opposition back without a run and with only three hits until the ninth when a single and double with a pass in between was good for a run.

Win Fourth Straight Year
The triumph of the Athletics marked the fourth straight year in which the American league champion had won the highest prize baseball has to offer and 16 out of 19 games won.

The game which rang down the curtain on the major league baseball for the year was typical of the pitch set by the moundsmen for the series. In only one game was the losing team able to score more than one run and in the opening battle only a scant two runs fell the lot of the vanquished.

FUEL COMPANIES ASK FOR MERGER

Claim Foreign Concerns Competition Demands Firms Join

OMAHA, NEB., Oct. 9.—Attorneys for two of America's largest oil companies, Standard Oil of New York and Vacuum, pressed in federal court today their claims that neither company can maintain its prestige in foreign markets unless the government allows them to merge into a billion dollar corporation.

Claims that such a merger would "open the door for a large trust which might place a strangle hold on the oil industry" were made at the opening session of the hearing by Assistant U. S. Atty. Gen. John Lord O'Brien, representing the government in its fight to prevent the combine.

Atty. Gen. Goldwater Deor and Walker D. Hines, representing the oil companies, contended that as Vacuum had a world market for lubricating oils and Standard for gasoline and that they had to sell low and high oils to each other they could not, working separately, compete successfully with Royal Dutch Shell and other international concerns.

Detroit Man Urges Business Take Hand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Prosperity can be reestablished through a debunking campaign and mutual confidence between buyer and seller, according to Harvey Campbell, vice president and secretary of the Detroit Board of Commerce, who was here today with a plan for revival of business without federal aid.

Campbell believes that American business men should take the matter into their own hands, institute a period of frank discussion of the situation and "break the buyers' strike."

A statistical committee made up of representative business leaders was urged and Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was recommended as its head.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Those who are fond of the oyster for its own sake eat it in the simplest manner possible—raw, on the half shell, seasoned with a dash of lemon juice and salt. Chilled, in this form, there is the maximum oyster flavor and texture to be enjoyed.

However, as the oyster is naturally rather pallid in savor, it can very well stand the more popular cocktail dressing:

Cocktail Sauce

3 tablespoons grated horse radish
3 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Mix together and keep cold. Which incidentally is an important part of the service of oysters. They should be kept alive of course, until the last possible moment, well chilled, and when opened, served on a bed of ice to keep thoroughly cold.

Broiled Oysters

(This may be a hot hors d'oeuvre for a dinner—in which case allow three per person. Or, if it is to be the main dish of a luncheon, half a dozen or more per person will be none too many.)

Use oysters on the half shell. Place on the rack of the broiler. Spoon on each oyster 1 teaspoonful of chopped green pepper, stuffed olive and lemon juice mixed together. (Or a teaspoonful of piccalilli can be used.) On top place a thin strip of bacon. Put under the broiler in a hot oven and turn the bacon so that both sides are broiled crisply. Then serve at once.

Oysters make a delicious stuffing for veal, chicken or turkey. Cook oysters in a little butter, and when boiling add bread crumbs, chopped onion, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Use only enough bread crumbs to absorb excess moisture, and mix carefully to keep oysters whole. A dash of lemon juice may be added if a more tart flavor is preferred.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Ample Floor Margin or None

For 15 minutes after little Billy's usual bedtime he fumed and fussed, hunting his bedroom slippers, which, he declared, he had "put just there" pointing to the side of his modernistic new bed. But there they weren't, and not as far under as he could peer, and his mother's firm insistence that he find them merely delayed his going to bed. Finally, she entered the search herself—rolled his bed clear across the floor, and behold, there were the missing slippers. With that mysterious energy which inanimate objects sometimes display, the slippers had managed to move themselves in the inconvenient, quite inaccessible center, where they could neither be seen, nor reached from the outside.

It is difficult to understand why furniture should be built so that there is only an inch or two between the bottom surface and the floor. That leaves room enough for dust to collect, and things to roll under but is not sufficient space to insert brooms or cleaners. Consequently there is the extra job of moving every such heavy piece every time the floor is cleaned—and where there's too much of such extra labor, a little neglect may creep in.

This is a factor which has to be borne in mind when large pieces of furniture are selected for any part of the house. Chests of drawers for living rooms, bedroom, dining room or kitchen, tables, beds, chairs, must fit into the cleaning arrangements as well as provide comfort. Some of the newest chests, especially the popular reproductions of old-fashioned pieces, are built so that the whole rests squarely and completely on the floor—no space underneath at all. That makes it practically a built-in piece, and dust cannot gather in any but accessible spaces.

If furniture is not built in that fashion, then it should be at least six inches from the floor, so that the floor can be kept clean via a long-handled brush or mop, and not necessitate crawling on knees in order to clean with a handbrush.

Certainly the equipment in the kitchen makes cleaning easier if built to meet the floor, with no margin. Cupboards for utensils, metal lined drawers for dry groceries, bread, etc., make for the maximum of cleanliness, and easy care if so built, instead of with irregular margins or space between furniture and floor. Also it means more space for equipment when less space is wasted on unused apertures and grooves.

Don't wait until it is too late!

A fact you should not overlook

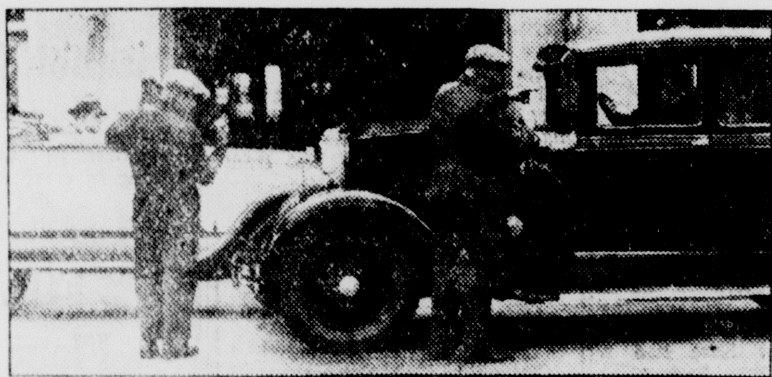

More red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that! Loss of appetite, underweight, sluggishness, a weakened condition, nervousness, pimples and boils are symptoms, often seen, of a deficiency of red-cells in the blood. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results. S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is invigorated. Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

"QUICK VAPOR" Ethyl gasoline begins its good work the instant you step on the starter. And quick starting means long life to your battery. LEGAL NOTICE
 TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SALEM CITY

Notice is hereby given to the qualified electors of Salem City, that the proposition of an additional tax levy for street and sewer purposes, over and above the 15 mills limitations of law, will be submitted to the electors of the said city, on occasion of the November 4, 1930 general election.

Such extra tax levy is declared necessary, by the Council of the said Salem City, because by the strictness of all authority under existing limitations of law the amount that can be so levied will be insufficient for purposes designated and it is deemed expedient to levy additional taxes. The question to be decided is whether or not a levy of not to exceed one mill be made for street and sewer purposes, for a period of not to exceed five years.

SHIP AGROUND IN MICHIGAN

Steamer Not In Great Danger; Crew Still Aboard Vessel

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Oct. 9.—The steamship Burlington which went aground in a blinding fog in Lake Michigan, 10 miles south of here was stranded today with her crew of 25 still aboard while coast guards and tug captains launched new efforts to effect a rescue.

Boats which went to the scene last night were driven to port by high seas, but the captains said they would put out again today in an effort to release the reef-bound vessel. No fear was felt for safety of the crew.

"The Burlington is in no serious danger," H. J. Sullivan, vice-president of the steamship company owning the vessel, said.

"The ship left Gary, Ind., early Tuesday morning and encountered very thick and foggy weather which is believed to have driven it on the reef."

"We don't believe that either the Burlington or the crew is in any danger."

Rescue boats which attempted to release the Burlington last night said that Captain W. J. Flander and his crew were in high spirits and apparently were not alarmed by their plight.

The Burlington, 250 feet long, has a tonnage of 3,000 and is constructed of steel. It is 20 years old.

VISION END OF WAR IN CHINA

Large Losses Sustained By Rebel Forces May Result In Unity

LONDON, Oct. 9.—An abrupt end of the civil war in China appeared imminent today with central news dispatches from Shanghai that the Nationalist troops occupied the city of Loyang after capturing the entire northern rebel force at Cheng-how.

President General Chiang Kai-shek of the National government has wrested the last vital stronghold from his opponents, according to the reports.

In an official statement marking the victory the Nationalist government constitutes a prelude to the foundation of permanent peace in China and the establishment of a real unity.

A large share of the Nationalist's sudden success was due to the decision of General Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian warlord, to join the Nationalist government against the northern rebels.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

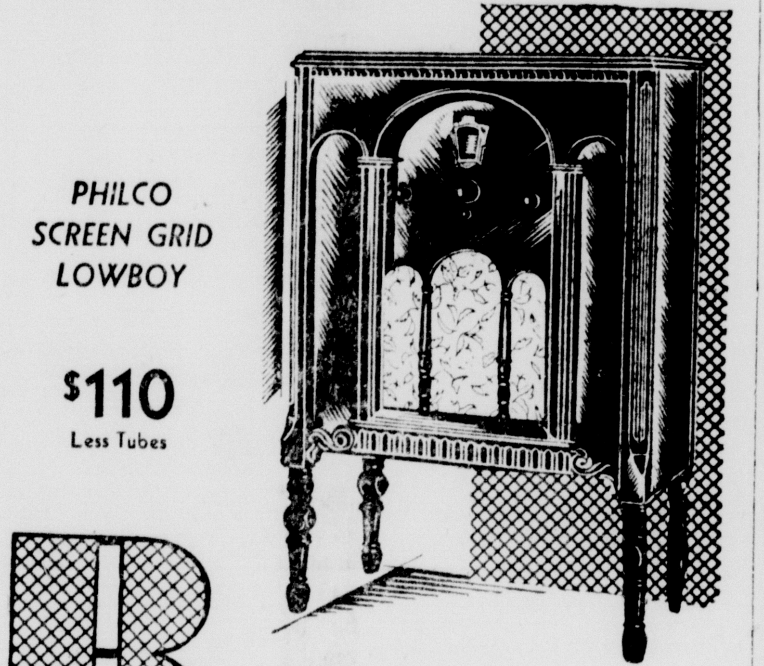

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

A TROUBLED WORLD
WHAT AILS US ALL?
SONS, FULL GROWN
By Arthur Brisbane

THERE IS SERIOUS REVOLUTION in Brazil, Pernambuco taken by the rebels, according to report. In the Argentine, rioting leaders are executed. In China 75,000 "Reds" attack Kiangsi province.

It is a strange, agitated, restless, dissatisfied world. That we have our share of the dissatisfaction here is proved in serious rioting and fighting by gangs of rowdies in Boston, attacking police and members of the American Legion.

It is enlightening in our day of "prohibition" to read that the fight started when a federal agent interfered with four bootleggers selling whiskey to the crowd, in public.

WHEN YOU ARE ILL, it is well to know what is the matter. Business is ill, with an illness that affects millions of unemployed, as illness of the body affects billions of cells.

1. Greenfield, of Santa Barbara, diagnosing, finds the following list of symptoms:
2—Over-speculation.
2—Fear.
3—Loss of confidence in our financial system.

4—Very low and cautious circulation of money.
5—Increase of unemployment by big business methods of "economy."
6—False statements of the country's condition.

What would you add to these symptoms? There is something the matter that nobody understands. This country fortunately will cure itself this time as it has cured itself often before.

IT SEEMS STRANGE TO READ in dispatches from Washington about the "type of submarines that the navy may build under the London treaty."

We couldn't imagine Grover Cleveland, or Lincoln, asking anybody in London: "What kind of submarines may we build? and how many?"

You are told that we may have, in years hence, as many as 40 United States submarines, and the navy is "concentrating on numbers, not on size."

We ought to have 100 submarines now, and we should concentrate on size, speed, and especially on cruising radius.

We should say to the rest of the world "We want peace, and we intend to have it. Therefore, we have a submarine fleet that can go around the world, invisible, and destroy every one of your commercial ships."

Kridler Awarded Production Medal
R. C. Kridler, of Salem, has just received a silver medal certificate from the American Jersey Cattle Club for Old Orchard Farm Poetess.

This cow, which started in test at three years and four months old, gave 10,059 pounds of milk and produced 561.31 pounds of fat in 305 days.

This is about 70 pounds more than would have been required for the silver medal.

This young cow is a half sister to Gamboges Bright Hope, which won the state championship in the 303 day class last year in Ohio.

OFFICERS HUNT SLAYER OF WIFE

Believe Man Who Fled From Hotel Guilty Of Murder

ST. LOUIS, MO., Oct. 9.—George W. E. Perry, believed by police to be the man charged with the murder of Mrs. Cora Bell Hackett near Lac Du Flambeau, Wis., disappeared from his hotel room last night shortly before detectives appeared to arrest him.

Perry vanished without checking out of the hotel or taking any of his baggage.

The detectives said they had evidence that Perry had married one St. Louis woman and proposed to another since he came here three weeks ago. He posed as the heir to a $675,000 fortune while in St. Louis, the detectives said.

Perry's identity became known when pictures of the fugitive, hunted by Wisconsin, Chicago and federal authorities, appeared in a St. Louis newspaper and the similarity to the Perry at the hotel was noted.

When the police arrived at his hotel room, however, Perry had vanished.

INVESTIGATIONS START ON MINE FIRE AT DALTON

Bodies Of Three Located Far Back In Shaft Of Coal Mine

FOUR MET DEATH AS RESULT OF BLAZE

Leader Of Rescue Squad Perishes When He Removes Mask

(By Associated Press) DALTON, Oct. 9.—The cause of flames which resulted in the deaths of three veteran miners and a rescue worker in a slope mine near this Wayne county village was being investigated by the state bureau of mines today.

The bodies of the three miners, entombed in a tunnel which ran 800 feet back from the entrance, were recovered last night after firemen and rescue workers had fought the fire, gas and water since early yesterday.

The dead men had fled to the rear of the tunnel as the flames ate back and heavy streams of water were poured in. They were found huddled together, asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas.

The victims failed to erect a barricade—the only chance they had to save their lives. Apparently they had lived only half an hour.

The dead were Russell Shanklin, 45, part owner of the mine; Robert Douglas, 55, mine engineer; and Harvey P. Sword, 47, the father of 11 young children, all of whom resided near here.

The finding of their bodies brought the death toll to four. Rush D. Miller, 47, Canton undertaker, removed his gas mask earlier in the day while leading a rescue squad, and died from breathing the fatal fumes.

Thomas Reese of Salem, state mining inspector, was one of the first to enter the mine, equipped with oxygen tanks. Reese arrived at the mine shortly after being notified of the entombment of the miners and with George Eyer, Massillon fireman, entered the mine shortly after noon.

The men carried with them a canary bird to test the air. At a distance of 150 feet from the mine's entrance the bird was overcome and the inspector, with Eyer, were forced to withdraw.

Douglas possibly gave his life in an effort to warn Shanklin and Sword, investigators believed.

His regular post was in a shed outside the mine, and it was considered likely he ran into the tunnel to cry the alarm when he noticed the flames.

Veteran Monoplane Used By Fliers In Trip To England

Columbia Starts Second Transatlantic Hop; Starts At 11:20

(By Associated Press) HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Oct. 9.—Captain Errol Boyd and Lieutenant Harry Connor hopped off at 11:20 a. m. (Salem time), in the airplane Columbia, for England.

The two fliers had been fog bound at the local airport for more than two weeks. Early today fog still hung over the New Foundland coast but, impatient at the delay, they prepared to take advantage of the first break in the weather.

It came during the forenoon when the clouds broke away and the fliers decided to take the leap immediately.

It will be the Columbia's second transatlantic crossing if the fliers are successful. The airplane is owned by Charles A. Levine, who flew it to Germany more than three years ago. His pilot was Clarence Chamberlain.

OHIO COUNTIES FACE EPIDEMIC AFTER DROUGHT

Conditions In At Least Four Southern Areas Held Critical

TAX COMMISSION TAKES OVER REINS

Typhoid, Diphtheria Are Threats To Communities In Affected District

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—Informed by first-hand investigation, that epidemics are threatened in southern Ohio, due to aggravated conditions in the drought-stricken counties, the state tax commission today, with the approval of Gov. Myers V. Cooper, had taken action which makes it possible for the local taxing authorities to raise funds for relief measures.

The tax commission issued an order declaring the existence of an emergency of such proportions as to justify the issuance of notes and the borrowing of money by local taxing authorities for direct relief, and for the purpose of providing employment through public works.

John S. Edwards a member of the state tax commission, recently attended, at Pomeroy, a meeting of public officials, bankers and representative citizens of Washington, Meigs, Vinton, Gallia and Athens counties. Speakers told of serious conditions in these counties. Other counties in southern Ohio are said to be similarly affected.

Actual drought conditions still prevail in some localities where water is being hauled for miles for family and livestock use. Cases of typhoid fever and diphtheria exist in several communities. Throughout the counties, there is a shortage of food, fuel and feed for stock and many instances were related of children who were prevented from attending school because of lack of proper clothing.

The tax commission's order was issued late Wednesday after representatives of these five counties had conferred, at the governor's office, with Harry D. Silver, state finance director.

After outlining conditions which exist in these counties, members of the delegation presented a copy of resolutions, adopted at the Pomeroy meeting, asking Gov. Cooper to call a special session of the state legislature for the purpose of amending the state highway code so as to permit use of funds on township and county roads.

State authorities, however, interpreted Ohio laws as empowering the state tax commission to declare that an emergency exists and to authorize the local taxing authorities to raise funds for relief measures. Accordingly, it was held that a special legislative session was unnecessary.

Revolutionary Forces Driving On To Capital

Troops Converging For Decisive Battle In Brazilian Trouble

RIO DE JANEIRO DEFENSES READY

Air Forces Join Rebel Contingents; Turn Over Planes

(By Associated Press) MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, Oct. 9.—Revolutionary armies of the southern Brazilian states are converging on Sao Paulo, center of Brazil's vast coffee-growing region, where it now appears, a decisive battle may be fought.

The Rio De Janeiro government, dispatches state, is depending upon troops in Sao Paulo to keep the southern armies away from the capital while the revolution is put down in the north. And to this end has strengthened its military bases for defense of the coffee capital.

In Rio Grande do Sul, hotbed of the revolution, and in Parana and Santa Catharina, adjoining states almost every hamlet is furnishing its quota of volunteers to aid in the advance of Sao Paulo and Rio De Janeiro.

Reports through Uruguayan border points say that 80,000 men are under arms and that armies totaling 100,000 men already have been mobilized. Parana and Santa Catharina armies totaling 30,000 men are marching toward the Uruguay river to effect a union there for the march northward.

Some successes are reported from the detachments and larger divisions advancing northward. Forces from Vaccari and Bon Jesus yesterday took Villa Lago, while a dispatch from Porto Alegre said Villa Anniopolis, strategic Santa Catharina coast point, had fallen to the revolutionary forces.

Meanwhile the revolutionary movement is advancing in the north. Where Pernambuco and Natal have fallen to the insurgents, Pernambuco, reinforced with compatriots from Parahyba, were said here to have taken over the small state of Alagoas, and to be now advancing toward Bahia, or Sao Salvador.

Rio De Janeiro reports said Bahia would be made the center of federal operations in the north and that General Santa Cruz had been appointed chief of all loyal forces in the area.

As reported here there is a strong revolutionary following in the Brazilian air corps. Members of the federal aviation school at Rio De Janeiro are said to be under arrest after attempting a subversive movement. Four planes sent to bomb Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes, have joined the revolution, while six airplanes at Natal have been handed over to the rebels.

VICE PRESIDENT OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH OHIO TALK

Tariff Act Defended In Address In Columbus; Endorses Ticket

PRESIDENT'S ACTS GET MUCH PRAISE

McCulloch Again Should Be In Senate; Tells Reasons Why

(By United Press) COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—The 1930 tariff act and the record of the national administration in dealing with unemployment and business depression were vigorously defended by Vice President Charles Curtis and Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, at a Republican rally here last night under auspices of the Franklin county Republican campaign organization.

Both speakers declared the new tariff will protect "the American standard of living" and denied that it will increase living costs. Both further denied any responsibility attached to the Republican party for the business depression or for unemployment conditions, insisting instead that prosperity will return as result of the policies of the administration.

No Mention of Prohibition Neither speaker mentioned prohibition.

Both urged the election of the entire Republican slate in Ohio, stressing particularly the necessity of electing a Republican senator and congressman to "uphold the standard of President Hoover."

McCulloch said he did not intend to discontinue his efforts to secure the passage of the tariff act.

"I been on the statute long enough to have judged upon it," he asserted.

"I have helped prepare and pass five tariff bills in my congressional career. I know therefore it is important."

COMMISSION TO ISSUE REPORTS ON PROHIBITION

No "Pussyfooting" Laid To Appear In Statement By Hoover Group

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Promise of an early report on prohibition in which there will be "no pussyfooting" emanated from President Hoover's law enforcement commission today after long hours of argument at its opening session yesterday.

It has become definitely known that the controversial subject of prohibition is now dominating the discussions of the commission and it also is known that virtually all of the day and night sessions of yesterday were spent in arguing the demands of an insurgent element on the commission for an immediate report on this question.

Leaders of this insurgent element are understood to be Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and Kenneth S. Mackintosh, former Washington jurist, both Republicans and dry, but neither of these would talk. They are reported to have insisted that the commission thrash out the prohibition controversy and do it at once.

Chairman George W. Wickersham announced after the long opening session that the commission hoped to report to congress by the opening of the December session, he added he believed "if the commission reaches the conclusion that prohibition is not enforceable, I think we should say so."

So busy have members of the commission been in their first hours since the summer recess, in arguing over the demands for an immediate report on prohibition that there has been no indication so far of how the body divided on this subject, if it does divide. Also, no concrete proposition in the way of a recommendation on prohibition has so far been placed before it.

FEDERAL MEN IN RAIDS ON HOTELS

Legion Headquarters In Boston Scene Of Operations

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Federal officers, who descended on several Boston hotels early today, arrested one man for bootlegging and seized a small amount of liquor.

The raids were started at the Statler hotel, headquarters of the American Legion. A search of the lobby and upstairs hallways and rooms netted a large number of suspects, a large number of imbibers, but only one bootlegger, federal officers said.

The suspects were ushered out a rear door and sent on their way. The lone seller was loaded up. And the imbibers were left to their devices.

Raiding squads spread from the Statler to other Boston hotels, where no arrests were made. Suspects and imbibers, however, were prevalent all over the city, officers said.

Without notifying the police of the intended raids and with the utmost secrecy the federal agents met in the Statler lobby shortly after midnight. The entire project was carried out quietly and it was hardly apparent that anything out of the ordinary was taking place.

EDITORIAL THE R-101 DISASTER

The world was shocked when it heard of the disaster that occurred to the R-101 last Saturday night on the beginning of its flight to India. The successful long-distance flights of the Graf Zeppelin and the R-100 have come very close to establishing a safety reputation for lighter-than-air transportation and the apparent inability of the R-101 to attain elevation and rise above the autumnal tempest that dashed it to the ground was contradictory to the general belief that dirigibles are capable of riding out almost any storm they may encounter.

Each person makes his own interpretation of a disaster that lacks dependable description. It is probable, and fortunately so, that no one ever will know exactly what caused the R-101 to crash. Evidence made available so far points to faulty management, inadequate preparation and unskilled handling. More careful planning might have taken into consideration the occurrence of storms; better engineering and inspection might have strengthened or discovered structural weaknesses and faults; better handling might have avoided the crash that caused the fatal explosion of the inflammable hydrogen with which the dirigible was filled. But there always will be some doubt; it will be a good thing, because no single person will have to take the entire blame for a disaster that probably grew out of a number of causes.

There is no excuse for condemning the dirigible as a type of transportation as seems to be one trend. Great Britain was trying hard to catch up with Germany through the construction of the R-100 and the R-101 and she erred a little in her haste. That is all. The United States is trying to catch up with Germany, too. She has something to learn, but nothing to fear.

The real tragedy of the R-101 is, of course, the loss of 46 of its passengers, including Lord Thomson, British air minister. Among the dead were men who had dedicated their lives to making Great Britain a leader in lighter-than-air transportation. Their death will retard seriously any further program Great Britain may attempt to place in operation. They died not as heroes, but as practical men who were the victims of a most regrettable accident.

LADY NICOTINE

The editor of a magazine published in Cleveland, the Cleveland Club Woman, wrote a sarcastic editorial recently on snooters. The particular snooters in question were women who asked Queen Mary whether it really was true that she smoked an occasional cigarette. Queen Mary, needless to say, did not reply.

At the time of the incident there were many who wondered publicly what business it was to the ladies if the queen of England did smoke and many others who answered them, also publicly, that it was none of their business at all. There seemed to be pretty general agreement on that point, but the affair soon was forgotten.

The afore-mentioned sarcastic editorial has opened the incident again. The president of the Cuyahoga county W. C. T. U. has made it the excuse for an attack on the editor of the Cleveland Club Woman, and has attempted to make it plain that the national W. C. T. U. had nothing to do with the affair. That is all between the magazine, the gatepost and the W. C. T. U., of course. The principle involved and Queen Mary's smoking habits continue to be of interest, however.

Conduct is largely a matter of impression. In any group some people are more likable or important than others and they play an important part in establishing social patterns.

By right of birth and by right of accomplishment, Queen Mary is one of those persons. There is a legitimate excuse, therefore, for questioning her concerning a habit which, if given general approval, would have a widespread effect. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. were snubbed when they attempted to interrogate the queen and they probably should have been, but their interest was not by any means impertinent. They certainly were not snooters; that is a term that implies sneaking tactics.

What Others Say

The first Earl of Birkenhead, whose death after a long illness follows with a few weeks that of the Duke of Northumberland, was only 58 years old; but few men in English political life have had a more stirring and varied career. It may be doubted if in intellectual ability he was equal to the duke, who though he held no political office, was long a power in the Conservative party by reason of his courage and his firm adherence to principle. The earl, once Frederick Edwin Smith, rose from humble beginnings. As Browning said of himself, he was "ever a fighter," though perhaps he did not always choose his weapons with discrimination. Presumably a staunch opponent of Irish home rule, he was nevertheless one of the chief negotiators of the treaty which established the Free State. In spite of the vehemence which was one of his marked characteristics, he was incapable of the consistency that the Duke of Northumberland so brilliantly exemplified.

Lord Birkenhead had one of the finest legal minds in England, and he had the barrister's capacity of doing his best for whatever public cause happened to be at the moment his client. He was a skilful prosecutor, as he showed in the case of Sir Roger Casement, and he was largely instrumental in carrying through a great reform in English legal procedure. He was a prominent member of the wartime coalition cabinet, and was later secretary of state for India under Mr. Baldwin. His services to his party in general were conspicuous, though, like Mr. Winston Churchill, his lack of judgment often made his sort of enfant terrible. Nevertheless, his fighting qualities make his death a loss to his political associates. He would have been an asset to the Conservatives as a campaigner had he survived until another general election.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Modern vagaries of an unsentimental age have not entirely beclouded New York. The golden past peeps faintly through here and there. The old Murray Hill district, more than any other, symbolizes how tenuously many cling to subdued and oppressive mid-Victorian propriety.

In this area may be found dignified gentlemen who take infinite pains in trimming their beards, cultivate a rather melancholy habit of mind and who wear hats straight on their heads instead of at rakish angles. They make sweeping bows to ladies and otherwise epitomize perfect behaviorism.

The old Murray Hill Hotel, center of the district, droops in a somnolent gloom. In its enormous lobby are venerable aristocrats who carry gold knobbed canes and meet any unseemly overtures of strangers with quickly lifted eyebrows and hearty garrumphs. A few still indulge a pinch of snuff.

There are Murray Hill men who take an afternoon off now and then to dress in frock coat and high hat and pay brief, respectful calls to the brown stone mansions of old friends. Once a month they go far down town for similar visits with the family lawyer.

Many ladies, as frail as frost, recall long black half-mitts and stately minuettes. On pleasant days they depart in closed carriages, horse drawn, for a circle of Central Park.

A fleeting glimpse of their faces suggests old ivory and you somehow think of the quick, dead strokes of churchbells.

While the Morgans live on Murray Hill, not all are rich as New York judges wealth. But they are the last of the vanishing blue bloods. Uniforms of their coachmen are shabby. Butlers are flabby and guests still have six o'clock dinners in the half light of patrician basement dining rooms.

These are the thinning line of gentle folk to whom tablids, lsmis, saxophones, sex novels, pagan plays and other off-shoots of a roistering generation are mysteries. Their amusements are learned lectures at Town Hall and a few auspicious symphony concerts at Carnegie.

I still think, however, nothing looks quite so out of place in the New York hurrah as one of those pointer hunting dogs with beautiful coat and pleading eyes.

On the day the celebrated Henri Matisse visited New York the metropolitan press bulged with engagement rumors of a cabaret singer to a motion picture lady. One notice of the celebrated painter was compassed under "Hotel Arrivals," dismissed completely with a single line: "Henry Matisse, Nice France."

A returning American, weary of hearing Berkeley pronounced "Barlay" and Chomoloudey "Chumley" had his revenge. A Britisher bade him bon voyage and remarked that some day he hoped to see Niagara Falls. "You mean Niffles?" queried the Yank.

Too, I hear British ship builders are knitting brows to exclaim "with something larger than the German ships 'Europa' and 'Bremen'." They were at work on the thousand foot Oceanic when the Teutonic liners were launched and immediately abandoned their marine masterpiece. In the meantime French ship builders have up their sleeve the "Ile de la Cité" in which they hope to cross from Harve to New York in less than four days. Fun on the ocean, gracious me!

I was getting along fairly well with today's offering when Little Bell popped in all merry and bright and observed that what he would enjoy at the moment would be a steaming bowl of old fashioned navy bean soup flavored with ham-hock. That gives you an idea why we skip out of town now and then to get away from it all.

Also I have got to keep away from 11th avenue. It is entirely too rough. Wandering about there yesterday several loafers around a gas house screeched in falsetto. "Yoo hoo!" directed, I suppose, at my spats. Feigning nonchalance, I idled before a window in which was a mirror. "Look!" yelled another, "He's taking a pike at his puss." So I scurried away up a side street.

I also stopped in at my old home, the Ritz—you know, see how the other half lives—and it occurs to me the movies could find a handsome leading man in John Lawlor, a starter there.

WATCH YOUR EARS

What to do for the minor accidents of life is something everybody should know. The baby gets an object up his nose or ear, one of the family gets something in his eye, or some other painful accident may happen—any one of these experiences calls for judgment and skill at a moment's notice.

It is not uncommon to get a foreign body in the ear. It creates a disagreeable sensation. Probably nothing is more distressing than getting an insect in the ear, and yet how easily that accident can happen. No matter how small the insect is it can make a lot of trouble.

Nature's Safeguard Nature has provided a safeguard in the form of the sticky odoriferous earwax. When an insect gains entrance to the ear the fest and wings just naturally get entangled in this substance. This usually prevents the insect from reaching the eardrum. If an insect ever does crawl far enough to reach the drum membrane the effect is maddening. The loud noises made are overpowering. There is such pain, with headache and vomiting that convulsions are sometimes caused. The thing to do at once is to pour sweet oil or olive oil or sewing machine oil into the ear and let it remain for a few minutes. Insects are quickly killed by this means. Then the ear should be gently irrigated with a stream of warm water from a fountain syringe. Never hang the fountain syringe higher than the head. A TREATISE ON BIRDS

Editor, The News:

The first week end in October found our woods and fields with all the ear marks of fall, and yet with a trace of summer, too. The leaves of the red maples and gums have turned to bright yellow, and the mid-day warmth of the past few days has completed the work of last week's heavy frosts and caused the leaves to fall more rapidly. The waters and goldenrod fill the fields with soft shades of purple and white, and bright yellow. The oaks and sugar maples however retain their green to a large extent; yarrow and Queen Anne's lace and self-heal are still found occasionally while a genuine touch of spring is found in the extraordinarily large numbers of violets that are in bloom this fall.

Among the birds too this paradoxical juxtaposition of summer and fall is evident. While a large number of our birds have already flown southward, one is surprised occasionally to see some bird which should have gone three or even four weeks ago. A trip to Eagle-ton's glens recently, revealed two young indigo buntings, showing blue in their tail feathers only, which had not yet left for their winter homes. Some of the birds sing occasionally, too, with all the fervor of mating time, but most of them indulge only in brief whistlings. Autumn showed itself last week end more in the numbers of species of birds listed. While I recorded 70 different kinds of birds during the week end, two weeks ago, and 45 in one day, but one week ago, I saw only 36 different kinds in the two days of the last week end, although this number would have been enhanced, doubtless, had I visited some locality favorable to shore-birds, such as Pine Lake or Westville lake.

The birds which I heard singing Saturday and Sunday included the Phoebe, Song Sparrow, Vesper Sparrow, Robin, Titmouse and Cardinal among our summer birds, and the Blue Jay, which is truly a fall bird if ever there was one, and the migrant White Throated Sparrow, which favors us with some of the music they bestow on their northern listeners.

While the catbirds were abundant only a week ago, they were entirely missing from Eagle-ton's glens, and only a side trip to a briar patch on the edge of town and a trip to Mill Creek park, in Youngstown, revealed solitary catbirds on each occasion.

The house wrens, which were common a week ago, have been entirely replaced by their cousins, the winter wrens, those chubby, short-tailed northerners which remind us, as they dance, of nothing so much as marionettes dancing on wires. The Carolina wrens we have with us, always although I know them in only a few localities. Among the other common birds which were here a week ago and are gone now are the vireos, red-headed woodpeckers, Maryland yellowthroats, brown thrashers, woodpeckers, bobolinks, and as far as I can discover the chimney swifts. Some of our summer residents, however, which have so far disregarded our chill nights, are the goldfinches, killdeer, field sparrows, flickers, towhees, meadowlarks, and kingfishers. One never knows whether to call the crows, grackles, and waxwings, summer residents only, or permanent residents—they sometimes migrate en masse and again they remain with us in considerable numbers.

The winter birds which have begun to arrive are the winter wrens, ruby-crowned kinglet, juncos, white-throated sparrows, although these we are certain of the juncos. Some of the birds observed were the thrush, olive backed thrush, throat green warbler and throat blue warbler. The latter were the only ones of the winter warbler host I was able to identify, although last week before there were birds of different kinds of warblers.

And so, we see the passing of summer and hail the coming of autumn.

Damage Suit Follows Automobile Accident

LISBON, Oct. 9.—Jennie Howard has filed a $10,000 damage suit in common pleas court against Asa O. Geer, Oakwood avenue, Pleasant Heights, East Liverpool, as a result of injuries she sustained when crushed between a car driven by the defendant and between one driven by Hiram Miller, of Paden City, W. Va.

The woman was standing at West Eighth street and Franklin avenue, East Liverpool, at 9 o'clock the evening of Aug. 2 last when Geer drove his car over a curb and caught the plaintiff between his car and another.

COOPER, WHITE IN CUYAHOGA

Nominees For Governor State Ideas Before Gatherings

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, and George White, of Marietta, his Democratic opponent for re-election, formally opened their campaign in Cuyahoga county last night and renewed their battle over state expenses.

Cooper, addressing two Republican rallies, asserted his party has provided a "progressive, efficient and economical administration."

White, speaking at a Democratic gathering, charged the Cooper administration with being the most extravagant and unbusinesslike in the history of Ohio.

The governor asserted the present administration has been forced to pay off a large indebtedness left by the preceding Democratic administration of former Gov. A. V. Donahue. He also charged White with confusing to differentiate between an appropriation and the budget and said the Democratic candidate was referring to "moneys for road building in such a way as to lead people to believe that this money is used for operation of the state government."

The Republican incumbent labeled the Democratic speaking tour of the state as a "caravan of calamity." They have been preaching hard times while the Democratic management is busy filing suits to enjoin public works that would give employment to hundreds of men.

Instances of this, he said, were the suits against the Apple Creek institution for the feeble-minded and the state office building in Columbus and efforts to defer allocation of $1,250,000 to relieve drought-stricken farmers.

The Irish decide that their own courts are good enough, while this country decides that it needs decisions from foreign judges, and joins the world court, getting 3,000 miles away across the ocean.

But most important of all—I took one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—didn't miss a morning.

DIVORCE CASE IS DISMISSED

Plaintiff Fails To Show When Hearing Is Set In Court

LISBON, Oct. 9.—When the divorce action of Laura B. Christ against Alonzo F. Christ was called for trial before Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court, and the plaintiff did not appear, the prayer of the petition for divorce was dismissed by the court for want of prosecution.

The former alimony order handed down in this case has been reduced to $30 monthly, to give the defendant opportunity to pay debts. At the end of six months, the court has ruled that a motion may be made to change this order. The costs in the issue has been divided by the court equally between the two parties.

In the divorce action filed by Alta Joseph against Clark N. Joseph, the court has ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $10 weekly beginning at once, and in addition to pay her $50 for the expense of the suit within 30 days.

VICE PRESIDENT OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH OHIO TALK

possible to prepare any tariff measure without some mistakes. But there is more good in this measure than there is bad."

He said that any mistakes in the act can be corrected through the operation of the flexible rate provision. He admitted that the flexible provision had not previously worked out as successfully as it should have, but added:

"Commission Too Slow

The Democratic party, Curtis charged, is an advocate of free trade and as such "has never been guilty of protecting an American industry of American labor."

Denying that the Republican party or the national administration is in any way to blame for unemployment conditions, Curtis asserted the situation now is not nearly so serious as in 1914 or in 1929, when he said 5,000,000 persons were jobless.

President Hoover, he said, has "done everything possible to restore confidence and return prosperity to the country." He blamed lack of confidence for the continuance of the business depression, declaring there is today as much money and capital in the country as ever before.

"We have had hard times before and we have got out of them in a reasonable time," he continued. "We have had times now, but we will get out of them under Republican policies."

Curtis Lauds Program

The Republican national administration, Curtis declared, has inaugurated "the greatest internal improvement program in history" to aid in relieving conditions. He appealed especially to the women voters to support the Republican ticket.

"I hope the American women will continue to advocate the policies they know are for the best interest of the American people," he said. He also praised Gov. Cooper and his administration.

Senator Fess' address was largely a repetition of the "keynote" speech he delivered here Sept. 11, before the Republican state convention.

"The problem before us is now to preserve the purchasing power of the American people in the midst of world-wide depression," he said, in defending the tariff act.

The business depression, he declared, was general throughout the world and has been less severe in America than in other nations.

Panic Follows Fire In Chicago Church

CHICAGO, Oct. 9. — Fire broke out last night in St. Isidore's Polish Catholic church while 200 worshippers were attending services there.

A rush for the exits that threatened to become a panic was halted when the Rev. Fr. Thaddeus Nowak with his back to the flames, besought the members of the congregation to move slowly, that there was plenty of time.

The fire, which started behind the sacristy did small damage.

Try Magnesia for Indigestion

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion. Adv.

"THE UNHOLY THREE"

Thrills, surprises, uncanny shadows and shivery mystery are the surroundings of the late Lon Chaney's first and last talking picture, "The Unholy Three," now playing at the State theater.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production has an amazing plot of a circus side-show ventriloquist, a midget and a giant, banded into a sinister triumvirate, and going through an astounding adventure. As the ventriloquist, Chaney is able to spring some surprises himself, in the way of five different voices. He plays the ventriloquist, carries on a conversation with his dummy, enacts the role of an old woman, with a perfect imitation of the feeble voice of old age, and besides his voice surprises even sings!

Who would ever imagine Chaney, master of mystery, favoring his audience with "Sweet Rosie O'Grady"? His first talkie is Chaney's greatest performance that of the sinister "Echo." Lila Lee plays the heroine, as the side show girl, and Elliott Nugent is seen in the male juvenile role.

The rest of "The Unholy Three" deserve special mention. They are Harry Earles who plays the midget, extracting considerable comedy out of a rather grim role, and Ivan Linow as the giant.

"COMMON CLAY"

Can a girl live down her past? That is one of the many problems in "Common Clay," the unusual movietone offering now on the screen of the Grand theater, with Constance Bennett and Lew Ayres playing the leading roles.

Victor Fleming directed this faithful version of Cleves Kinkadee's Harvard prize success, with Tully Marshall, Matty Kemp, Beryl Mercer and other celebrities in the cast.

Woman Flier Sets New Mark For Sex

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Battling storms and groping through dense mountain fogs during the last 300 miles of a trans-continental flight, Laura Ingalls, diminutive 25-year-old aviatrix, has established a mark for fliers of her sex—an elapsed time of 30-hours, 27-minutes for flying across the United States.

Miss Ingalls left New York Sunday, making nine stops enroute. She completed the last leg from Kingman, Ariz., her last fueling stop in four hours, 40-minutes, dropping down at Glendale airport at 4:25 p. m. (P. S. T.) yesterday. The aviatrix made the crossing in the same plane with which she recently set the world's record of 714-barrel rolls and the women's record of 980 consecutive loops. Miss Ingalls is a transport pilot and has been flying two years.

Does One Slip Make a Bad Woman?

A Story Written in the Heart's Blood of Humanity
Never Have You Witnessed a More Poignant, a More Human or a More Beautiful Sincere Performance on the Talking Screen

The story of a girl who found to her undoing, that with many men a pretty girl is a challenge and a lawful prey. A rare and altogether inspiring piece of dramatic art which realizes the screen's highest aim to teach real life with sincerity and understanding. It is so far away from any other drama of this generation, it defies comparison or even classification.

PITCHING OF GROVE, EARNSHAW GREAT FACTOR IN A'S VICTORY

THE DAY In Sports

WILLAMAN STAR IN '13

Ohio State and Northwestern have met eight times on the gridiron since 1913, the Evanston school being one of the teams that Ohio State did not play until after entrance into the Big Ten. Ohio State has won six of the games and Northwestern two, the Buckeyes being credited with 211 points to 40 in their next Saturday's foes.

The "rub" comes though when the story of the past three years between the two schools is reviewed. In 1927 Northwestern steam-rolled the Bucks 19 to 13. "Tiny" Lewis, after the Scarlet line to bits. The 1928 game resulted in a 10 to 0 Ohio State victory, the Bucks recovering a Purple fumble deep in Northwestern territory and scoring, he game's only touchdown on a pass from Holman to Eby from the 35-yard line.

Last year, the Buckeyes were completely outclassed, losing 18 to 6 and scoring their only touchdown when they recovered a Calderwood fumble before it hit the ground to run 8 yards.

The early days of the rivalry were distinctly Ohio's the records showing that Northwestern was able to score but three points against Scarlet teams in five games.

The series was inaugurated in 1913 when the Buckeyes walloped Northwestern 58 to 0. Sam Willaman, present Buckeye coach, scored four touchdowns in this encounter and the Bucks, as a whole, gained 567 yards to 46 for Northwestern. They also scored 46 first downs to three for Northwestern.

The score of the 1914 game was 17 to 0, Ohio State. The teams battled through a scoreless first half in the 1915 game but in the third period, Howard Yerges, Ohio State's greatest quarterback, forward-passed the Wildcats dizzy and the Buckeyes completed three touchdowns in four minutes, eventually winning 34 to 0.

The 1916 game decided the championship of the Western conference. Ohio State, winning 23 to 3, "Chic" Harley led the Ohio attack that day, making the first score of the game with a placement kick from the Purple 34-yard line after six minutes of play. In the fourth quarter "Paddy" Driscoll, one of Northwestern's immortals, booted a placekick from Ohio's 38-yard line to tie the score but this merely acted as a spark which sent the great Harley into action.

Almost before the sounds of Northwestern's cheering had subsided, Harley electrified one of the Ohio fields largest crowds with a 13-yard touchdown run. Shortly thereafter he ran for another touchdown traveling 16 yards. Then he hrew a pass to Clarence McDonald which placed the ball so close to the Purple goal that "Swede" Sorenson, fullback, went over on a line plunge. In 1927, another Ohio State championship year, Pete Stinchcomb, the Buckeye's second all-American, scored three touchdowns on runs of 10, 15 and 13 yards, Ohio winning, 40 to 0.

Long noted as great followers of the team on out-of-town trips, hundreds of university and Columbus people are expected to make the trek to Evanston Saturday. A special train has been hired by the university athletic association.

Several radio stations will be on the air with the game, among them KEAO, Ohio State university's own broadcaster system. This station will go on the air at 2:45 Columbus time with pre-game information. Game time is 3:00 o'clock, Eastern standard time.

Officials for the game are Frank Birch (Earham), referee; W. D. Knight (Dartmouth), umpire; Geo. Simpson (Wisconsin), field judge; and J. J. Lipp (Chicago), head linesman.

Notre Dame Stars Out Of Navy Tilt

SOUTH BEND, IND., Oct. 9.—Four Knute Rockne injuries have out his Notre Dame football squad from 120 to 118 hand picked players.

The two casualties will be missed Saturday when the Ramblers meet the Navy, however, they are "Moon" Mullins, first string fullback, and Dick Donoghue, varsity right tackle, who were scuffed up in the Southern Methodist game. Coach Rockne said they will not be permitted to play in the navy game.

Salem High may defeat Warren in the night game scheduled at Reilly athletic stadium Friday but the victory will not be a result of the football as exhibited by the first-string eleven selected by Coach Floyd Stone in scrimmage workouts held at Centennial park Wednesday evening.

The Red and Black varsity eleven, playing against Assistant Coach Franklin Lewis' third-string youngsters, failed to give an impressive exhibition on either defense or offense in what was without doubt the regular team's poorest practice since the first week of the season and chances for a victory over the Friday night opponents, at first bright, began showing marked signs of fading.

The third team ran a series of plays used by Warren and carried the ball through the first team's line for repeated gains of five and six yards while the latter aggregation failed to register a first down in 15 minutes of practice against the younger opponents. In 11 tries the varsity gained only 12 yds on the field.

The early days of the rivalry were distinctly Ohio's the records showing that Northwestern was able to score but three points against Scarlet teams in five games.

Earnshaw Stands Out As Star For A's; Gelbert For Cards

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—There was only one nomination today for the player most entitled to enter the ranks of the world's series heroes.

He is George Livingston Earnshaw, New Yorker by birth, Philadelphia by adoption and achievement, alumnus of Swarthmore college and right-handed "iron man" pitcher, ace of the world's champion Athletics.

Earnshaw is 30 years old now, long past the day when he used to hear the old college cheers, but he still parts his hair in the middle and looks the part of an undergraduate. He was a great football player as well as a star pitcher in college. He is the greatest right-handed "iron man" in baseball now and entitled to rank with such famous old-time stars as Joe McGinnity, Jack Combs and Big Ed Walsh.

After sharing the pitching "big act" with his team-mate and co-star, Robert Moses Grove, most of the way, Earnshaw wound up in a blaze of pitching glory by hurling 16 of the last 18 innings for the A's. Earnshaw broke up what was expected to be a repetition of the fifth game "act" with Grove by sticking to the last man was out, even though it was a struggle, while Grove continued to make gestures in the bullpen.

Al Simmons was the most consistent of the Athletics at bat, hitting safely in five of the six games as he lived up to the best traditions of the league's batting king, leading the regulars of both teams with the stick. Simmons had the

Philadelphia Hurlers Proved Too Tough For Batters Of Card Crew

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The Athletics of Philadelphia, world's champions for the second time in two years, had a right today to consider themselves "a great team."

The accolade was bestowed by no less a judge of baseball teams than Connie Mack himself.

The 67-year-old manager of the Athletics refused to stamp his team as "great" after it had won the American league championship. First, he said, the A's must repeat as world's champions.

The American leaguers won the series in impressive fashion by capturing the sixth game, 7 to 1, from the courageous but impotent St. Louis Cardinals.

Cards Almost Helpless
After the effective pitching of Big George Earnshaw, the Cards were almost helpless, failing to get a man to third base until two batsmen had been retired in the final inning.

When the visitors counted their lone run they broke a streak of scoreless pitching against them by Earnshaw which had extended over a stretch of 22 innings.

The Big Moose of the A's blanked the opposition in the last seven innings of the second game of the series, permitting six hits and winning 6 to 1.

In the fifth game at St. Louis he went the first seven innings without being nicked for a run when he left the game for a pinch hitter. In this game he had allowed only two hits. In the final game he turned the opposition back without a run and with only three hits until the ninth when a single and double with a pass in between was good for a run.

The triumph of the Athletics marked the fourth straight year in which the American league champion had won the highest prize baseball has to offer and 16 out of 19 games won.

The game which rang down the curtain on the major league baseball for the year was typical of the pitch set by the moundsmen for the series. In only one game was the losing team able to score more than one run and in the opening battle only a scant two runs fell the lot of the vanquished.

Claim Foreign Concerns' Competition Demands Firms Join

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 9.—Attorneys for two of America's largest oil companies, Standard Oil of New York and Vacuum, pressed in federal court today their claims that neither company can maintain its prestige in foreign markets unless the government allows them to merge into a billion dollar corporation.

Claims that such a merger would "open the door for a large trust which might place a strangle hold on the oil industry" were made at the opening session of the hearing by Assistant U. S. Atty Gen. John Lord O'Brien, representing the government in its fight to prevent the combine.

Atty's Goldwater Door and Walker D. Hines, representing the oil companies, contended that as Vacuum had a world market for lubricating oils and Standard for gasoline and that they had to sell low and high oils to each other they could not work separately, completely successfully with Royal Dutch Shell and other international concerns.

Detroit Man Urges Business Take Hand

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Prosperity can be reestablished through a debunking campaign and mutual confidence between buyer and seller, according to Harvey Campbell, vice president and secretary of the Detroit Board of Commerce, who was here today with a plan for revival of business without federal aid.

Vampbell believes that American business men should take the matter into their own hands, institute a period of frank discussion of the situation and "break the buyers' strike."

A statistical committee made up of representative business leaders was urged and Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was recommended as its head.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

Those who are fond of the oyster for its own sake eat it in the simplest manner possible—raw, on the half shell, seasoned with a dash of lemon juice and salt. Chilled, in this form, there is the maximum oyster flavor and texture to be enjoyed.

However, as the oyster is naturally rather pallid in color, it can very well stand the more popular cocktail dressing:

Cocktail Sauce

3 tablespoons grated horse radish
3 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Mix together and keep cold. Which incidentally is an important part of the service of oysters. They should be kept alive of course, until the last possible moment, well chilled, and when opened, served on a bed of ice to keep thoroughly cold.

Broiled Oysters

Use oysters on the half shell. Place on the rack of the baking-pan. Place on each oyster 1 teaspoonful of chopped green pepper, stuffed olive and lemon juice mixed together. (Or a teaspoonful of piccalilli can be used.) On top place a thin strip of bacon. Put under the broiler in a hot oven and turn the bacon so that both sides are broiled crisply. Then serve at once.

Oysters make a delicious stuffing for veal, chicken or turkey. Cook oysters in a little butter, and when boiling add breadcrumbs, chopped onion, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Use only enough breadcrumbs to absorb excess moisture, and mix carefully to keep oysters whole. A dash of lemon juice may be added if a more tart flavor is preferred.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

Ample Floor Margin or None

For 15 minutes after little Billy's usual bedtime he fumed and fussed, hunting his bedroom slippers, which, he declared, he had "put just there" pointing to the side of his modernistic new bed. But there they weren't, and not as far under as he could peer, and his mother's firm insistence that he find them merely delayed his going to bed. Finally, she entered the search herself—rolled his bed clear across the floor, and behold, there were the missing slippers. With that mysterious energy which inanimate objects sometimes display, the slippers had managed to move themselves in the inconvenient, quite inaccessible center, where they could neither be seen, nor reached from the outside.

It is difficult to understand why furniture should be built so that there is only an inch or two between the bottom surface and the floor. That leaves room enough for dust to collect, and things to roll under but is not sufficient space to insert brooms or cleaners. Consequently there is the extra job of moving every such heavy piece every time the floor is cleaned—and where there's too much of such extra labor, a little neglect may creep in.

borne in mind when large pieces of furniture are selected for any part of the house. Chests of drawers for living rooms, bedroom, dining room or kitchen, tables, beds, chairs, must fit into the cleaning arrangements as well as provide comfort. Some of the newest chests, especially the popular reproductions of old-fashioned pieces, are built so that the whole rests squarely and completely on the floor—no space underneath at all. That makes it practically a built-in piece, and dust cannot gather in any but accessible spaces.

If furniture is not built in that fashion, then it should be at least six inches from the floor, so that the floor can be kept clean via a long-handled brush or mop, and not necessitate crawling on knees in order to clean with a hand-brush.

Certainly the equipment in the kitchen makes cleaning easier if built to meet the floor, with no margin. Cupboards for utensils, metal lined drawers for dry groceries, bread, etc., make for the maximum of cleanliness, and easy care if so built, instead of with irregular margins or space between furniture and floor. Also it means more space for equipment when less space is wasted on unused apertures and grooves.

Don't wait until it is too late!

More red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that! Loss of appetite, underweight, sluggishness, a weakened condition, nervousness, pimples and boils are symptoms, often seen, of a deficiency of red-cells in the blood. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results. S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is invigorated. Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

"QUICK VAPOR" Ethyl gasoline begins its good work

the instant you step on the starter. And quick starting means long life to your battery. It means that "Quick Vapor" burns in the combustion chambers instead of running down the cylinder walls, washing off the oil and diluting the lubricant in your crank case.

High volatility does that for you. "Quick Vapor" Ethyl not only vaporizes faster. It vaporizes at lower temperatures. Combine that property with complete freedom from knock and you have a gasoline that gives you the best performance of which your car is capable. That's "Quick Vapor" Ethyl.

Drive up to any Refiners Service Station or the station of any Refiners Dealer. Fill up with "Quick Vapor" Ethyl. Keep using it long enough to make a

LEGAL NOTICE
TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SALEM CITY

Notice is hereby given to the qualified electors of Salem City, that the proposition of an addition to the city levy, for street and sewer purposes, over and above the 15 mills limitations of law, will be submitted to the electors of the said city, on occasion of the November 4-1936 general election.

Steamer Not In Great Danger; Crew Still Aboard Vessel

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Oct. 9.—The steamship Burlington which went aground in a blinding fog in Lake Michigan 10 miles south of the shore, was stranded today with her crew of 25 still aboard while coast guards and tug captains launched new efforts to effect a rescue.

Boats which went to the scene last night were driven to port by high seas, but the captains said they would put out again today in an effort to release the reef bound vessel. No fear was felt for safety of the crew.

"The Burlington is in no serious danger," H. J. Sullivan, vice-president of the steamship company owning the vessel, said.

"The ship left Gary, Ind., early Tuesday morning and encountered very thick and foggy weather, which is believed to have driven it on the reef."

"We don't believe that either the Burlington or the crew is in any danger."

Rescue boats which attempted to release the Burlington last night said that Captain W. J. Flander and his crew were in high spirits and apparently were not alarmed by their plight.

The Burlington, 250 feet long, has a tonnage of 3,000 and is constructed of steel. It is 20 years old.

COLUMBIANA

The Child Conservation league met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. H. Britten, South Main street, with nine members responding to roll call by giving a recent discovery concerning children. The following papers were read: "Youthful delinquents and the Juvenile Court," Mrs. Stewart Orr; "What the 'Kid Judge' Has Done to Save the Boy," Mrs. H. L. Schlegel; and "The Work of Kate Bernard for Child Labor Laws and Prison Reform," Mrs. G. A. Funk.

Plans were completed for the production of the show, "Cool Knights" which will be given under the auspices of this organization next Tuesday and Wednesday evening in the school auditorium. Proceeds to be given to purchase playground equipment for the new school playground. A representative of the Triangle Producing Co. of Greensboro, N. C., is now conducting daily rehearsals for the musical comedy.

Members of the board of directors of the Columbian Business Men's association were guests at the meeting of the Columbian Rotary club. A round table discussion led by the chairman of the community service committee, H. W. Hammond, was held with the result that opinions were given and plans made for the next drive for the Community Chest fund. Rotarians Davis, Pollock, Campbell and Torbert of Sebring, were club visitors at the meeting and were called upon for brief remarks.

Society Meets
The first meeting of the year for the Columbian Sorosis society was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. T. Coyle, West Park avenue. "Pioneer Women" was the topic for the meeting. Papers were read by Mrs. L. I. Garrard and Mrs. Solon Morris. Mrs. Clarence Shontz gave book reviews of "The Great Meadow" and "Cimarron."

The regular meeting of the Columbian board of education was held Monday evening. Vice President O. P. Harrold presided in the absence of President H. H. Detwiler. Routine business was transacted and new equipment for the home economics and commercial departments ordered. School will be dismissed on Friday, Oct. 31, so that the teachers may attend the annual convention of the North-eastern Ohio Teachers' association at Cleveland. The South Elm street property known as the W. H. Beck property, was formally purchased from the Citizens' playground committee, and will be used for playgrounds for the school as soon as it is put in shape for use.

Gridlers Practice
Coach Atkins of the C. H. S. football team and Assistant Coach Ward, are putting the boys through daily drills in preparation for their third game of the season, Sebring High being met at Sebring Saturday afternoon. It is probable that several changes will be made in the line-up.

VISION END OF WAR IN CHINA

Large Losses Sustained By Rebel Forces May Result In Unity

LONDON, Oct. 9.—An abrupt end of the civil war in China appeared imminent today with central news dispatches from Shanghai that the Nationalist troops occupied the city of Loyang after capturing the entire northern rebel force at Chengchow.

President General Chiang Kai-shek of the Nationalist government has wrested the last rival stronghold from his opponents, according to the reports.

In an official statement marking the victory the general said: "The suppression of the rebellion constitutes a prelude to the foundation of permanent peace in China and the establishment of a real unity."

A large share of the Nationalists' sudden success was due to the decision of General Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian warlord, to join the Nationalist government against the northern rebels.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
